a camera;

a plurality of sensors, each of said sensors configured to detect a different physiological response of a user; and a controller configured to cause said camera to capture an image based on a detections of ~~said~~ different physiological responses by said sensors.

21. (Currently Amended) The system of claim 20, wherein at least one of said physiological responses is involuntary.

22. (Currently Amended) The system of claim 20, wherein said controller is further configured to determine a value indicative of an excitement level of said user based on ~~said~~ detections by each of said sensors and to cause said camera to capture said image based on said value.

23-24. (Canceled)

25. (Currently Amended) A method, comprising ~~the steps of~~:

providing a camera;

detecting, via a plurality of sensors, a different physiological responses of a user of said camera; and automatically causing said camera to capture an image based on ~~said detecting step~~ each of said detected physiological responses.

26. (Currently Amended) The method of claim 25, wherein at least one of said physiological responses is involuntary.

27. (Currently Amended) The method of claim 26, further comprising ~~the step of~~ determining, based on ~~said detecting step~~ each of said detected physiological responses, a value indicative of an excitement level of said user, wherein said causing ~~step~~ is performed based on said value.

28. (Canceled)

29. (Currently Amended) The method of claim 25, wherein one of said physiological responses is a blink of an eyelid of said user.
